ROSEMOUNT Chardonnay Hunter Valley Roxburgh Supple, gentle and harmonious, layering its fig, apricot, honey and root beer aromas and flavors in a seamless cascade. Acidity is there but not poking through as in earlier vintages. A complete wine that seems ready to open up further with aging.--Rosemount vertical. Drink now through 2002 . 2,300 cases made. ^€^HS	1996	93	$30	<input type="checkbox"/> persistent and generous through the finish.--Rosemount vertical. Drink now. 2,000 cases made. â€“HS

ROSEMOUNT Chardonnay Hunter Valley Roxburgh

1990 87 $30

Still feels youthful. A vigorous wine, with nice layers of pear, tobacco and root beer flavors that swirl around on the finish. A solid Chardonnay that doesn't have a big follow-through.--

ROSEMOUNT Chardonnay Hunter Valley Roxburgh

1987 78 $25

Has much of the same personality as the '84, but is much less complete. Acidity sticks out on the finish here also, but so does the alcohol. Probably was better integrated in the past.--

1984 91 $25

Tastes like a dry beerenauslese, or perhaps a mouthful of delicious Muscat raisins; ripe, spicy and remarkably fresh even after all these years. Acidity pokes out just a bit on the finish, but this is a dramatic wine of distinct personality and flair.--
